

Rolland Lee, B.A., M.Psy.

Senior Analyst

His current work with Hollis Associates involves research on buyers and private equity groups, preparation of pro forma forecasts and financial statements, assisting with preparation of client profiles and market research. He also assists in database work and other projects as needed.

Rolland's prior work has included conducting research on corporations, marketing assessments and doing financial and accounting analysis. His experience has included an entrepreneurial firm involved in technology and security consulting, a private educational organization, a technology and marketing firm, and a national distribution firm.

His academic background includes Bachelor and Master's degrees from Cornell University where he was a Cornell Tradition Scholar.